pavers@xeripave.com

Mermaid Pools in Gloucester, Ontario, Canada wondered how Xeripave would stand up to a Canadian winter.

The owner asked if we could send him a paver that he could test at his facility, which we did. He threw the paver outside of his office and left it there. When the owner reported back, Xeripave had performed excellently. He told us, “I threw cold water on it, I threw hot water on it, and I threw salt on it. None of that affected it.”

While some may see the experiment as anecdotal, the results are good news. In a real world test, performed by someone who isn't a scientist, the pavers performed as advertised. Installers appreciate this kind of durability in realistic conditions, which is why they select our product.

We welcome all feedback from our customers. With this input, we can improve our products, and continue to exceed customer expectations.
